

SECTION 1 OF 2 — FOR NEW HIRES

Using the Expedition

Everything you need, in the order you will need it. The site is a nine-phase onboarding programme; you work through it in order and it remembers exactly where you are.

1. Create your account

1. Open the site link your manager sent you and choose Create account.
2. Enter your name, work email, and a password of at least eight characters. You type it twice — the second box shows a green tick when they match.
3. Add your manager's email so your progress notices reach the right person.
4. If a confirmation email arrives, click the link, then sign in.

Use the same account every time — your progress is tied to it, not to the computer you are on, so it follows you between machines.

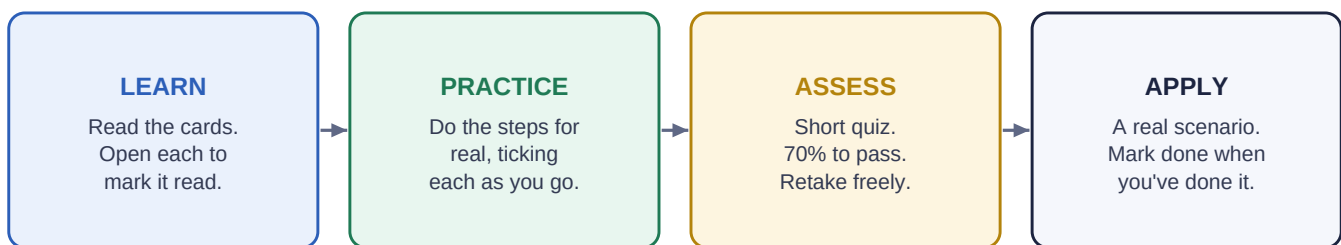

2. The Trailhead

Signing in brings you to the map of all nine phases. Each card shows how far through you are and whether it is open or locked. Phases unlock one at a time: finish the one you are on and the next opens. Locked phases cannot be opened early — each builds on the one before it.

The sidebar is always there: every phase, your overall progress, My Timeline (your dates) and the Gear Room (links and tools).

3. Working through a task

Open a phase to see its task cards. Every task has the same four sections, and they unlock in order.

Section	What you do
Learn	Open each explanatory card. Opening it marks it read; the section completes when you have opened them all.
Practice	A checklist of things to actually do — open a portal, run a command, ask your buddy. Do them for real, then tick each one. Some tasks embed a video or walkthrough here.
Assess	A short quiz; 70% passes and you can retake it as often as you like. Some questions ask for a written reflection instead — those are for your own thinking and are not marked.
Apply	A realistic scenario that puts the task to work. Do it, then mark it complete. This is the part that makes it stick.

4. Finishing a phase, and your schedule

When every task in a phase is done, the phase shows complete, the next unlocks, and your manager is emailed automatically. Nothing to submit. Each phase is normally allotted about a week; see your own dates under My Timeline.

You will receive	When
A midway check-in reminder	Partway through each phase
An overdue notice	If a phase passes its due date unfinished
(Your manager) a completion notice	Each time you finish a phase

5. If something goes wrong

Situation	What to do
You cannot sign in	Use the email you registered with. If the confirmation email never arrived, check spam, then ask your manager to re-send it.
Your progress looks empty	Check you are signed in — your name shows at the bottom of the sidebar. Progress follows the account, not the browser.
A phase is locked and you need it	Finish the phase before it, or ask your manager if you genuinely need to work out of order.
You are behind schedule	Tell your manager early — they can move your dates and the reminders adjust automatically.

The one habit that matters

Tick things as you actually do them, not in a batch at the end of the week. The reminders, your manager's view, and your own sense of pace all depend on it being current.

Quick reference — where things are

Where	What it is for
Trailhead (home)	The map of all nine phases and your overall progress.
A phase page	The task cards for that phase.
A task page	Learn, Practice, Assess and Apply for one topic.
My Timeline	Your phase dates: started, midway check-in, due.
Gear Room	Links, tools and reference material.
Sidebar footer	Who you are signed in as, and the sign-out link.

SECTION 2 OF 2 — FOR MANAGERS

Editing and running the site

Managers can change the training content directly in the browser, adjust anyone's schedule, and control the reminder emails. None of it requires code, and changes go live for everyone immediately.

Editing a task

Sign in as a manager and open any task page. A Edit this task button appears in the bottom-right corner; it opens a panel of plain text boxes.

You can change	How
Task title and description	Type in the boxes at the top.
Learn cards	Edit the title and body of any card. Use the buttons to add a card, delete one, or move it up and down. Plain text is formatted into paragraphs automatically.
Practice steps	One step per line in a single box.
Video or walkthrough	Paste any hosted link into the embed box — a YouTube embed link, a Box or SharePoint document, an internal page. The checkbox below shows or hides that section entirely.
Quiz	Each question is a box; each answer option is a row with a circle beside it. Click the circle next to the correct answer. Buttons add or remove options and questions.
Apply scenario	Type in the box at the bottom.

Save for everyone publishes the change — every user sees it the next time they open the page. Revert to built-in removes your edits for that task and restores the original. Edits are per task, so changing one never affects another.

The site will not let you publish a broken quiz

Saving is blocked, with a plain-English message, if a question has no text, a multiple-choice question has fewer than two options, or no correct answer is marked. Blank options are dropped automatically.

Managing people and schedules

The Manager Dashboard is linked in the sidebar. It has four tabs.

Tab	What it does
Team	Every employee with their phase progress. Click Timeline on anyone to set their start, due and midway dates from date pickers, or use Postpone remaining by a week to shift everything unfinished at once.
People	Names, emails, roles, and which manager each person's alerts go to.
Alerts	The reminder rules: on/off, days, time, who receives them, and the message wording. Click a variable chip to insert a value like the person's name.
Email log	Every email the system sent, with any errors.

Opening a phase early. Phases normally unlock in order, but in the Timeline view each phase has an Unlocked tick box — tick it and that phase opens for that person immediately, whether or not the previous one is finished. Unlock all phases does the lot. At the top of the Team tab, Your own access does the same for your own account, which is how you look ahead to review or edit content in later phases.

Making someone a manager

Normally: Dashboard → People tab → change their Role to manager → Save. They see the dashboard next time they reload.

If no manager account exists yet — the first one, or if every manager has left — promote directly in the database instead:

1. Have the person create a normal account on the site first.
2. Open your Supabase project and choose SQL Editor → New query.
3. Paste the line below, replacing the email with theirs, and press Run.

update public.profiles set role = 'manager' where email = 'someone@ibm.com';

UPDATE 1 means it worked — they reload the site and the dashboard appears. UPDATE 0 means no account matched that email; check the spelling, or that they finished creating the account.

Common manager questions

Question	Answer
Will my edits be lost when the site is updated?	No. Browser edits live in the database and take precedence over the built-in content, per task, until someone clicks Revert to built-in.
Can I add a brand-new task or phase?	Not from the browser — that is a file change. Ask whoever maintains the site.
Someone finished a phase but their manager got no email.	Check the Email log tab for errors, and that the person's manager email is set on the People tab.
Can employees see each other's progress?	No. Employees see only their own; managers see everyone.

Manager quick reference

To do this	Go here
Reword a task, add a Learn card, change a quiz	The task page itself → Edit this task
Add a video or document to a task	Edit this task → the embed link box
Undo your edits to one task	Edit this task → Revert to built-in
Change someone's due dates	Dashboard → Team → Timeline
Push everything back a week for one person	Dashboard → Team → Postpone remaining by a week
Change when reminder emails go out, or their wording	Dashboard → Alerts
Check whether an email actually sent	Dashboard → Email log
Make someone a manager	Dashboard → People → Role (or the SQL above)
Open a locked phase for someone (or yourself)	Dashboard → Team → Timeline → Unlocked
