

GUIDE FOR NEW HIRES

Using the Expedition

Everything you need, in the order you will need it. The site is a nine-phase onboarding programme; you work through it in order and it remembers exactly where you are.

Nothing to install

A web browser and the site link is all you need — no app, no plug-in, nothing to set up. Chrome, Safari, Edge and Firefox all work, and so do phones and tablets.

1. Create your account

1. Open the site link your manager sent you and choose Create account.
2. Enter your name, work email, and a password of at least eight characters. You type it twice — the second box shows a green tick when they match.
3. Add your manager's email so your progress notices reach the right person.
4. If a confirmation email arrives, click the link, then sign in.

Use the same account every time — your progress is tied to it, not to the computer you are on, so it follows you between machines.

2. The Trailhead

Signing in brings you to the map of all nine phases. Each card shows how far through you are and whether it is open or locked. Phases unlock one at a time: finish the one you are on and the next opens. Locked phases cannot be opened early — each builds on the one before it.

The sidebar is always there: every phase, your overall progress, My Timeline (your dates) and the Gear Room (links and tools).

3. Working through a task

Open a phase to see its task cards. Every task has the same four sections, and they unlock in order.

Section	What you do
Learn	Open each explanatory card. Opening it marks it read; the section completes when you have opened them all.
Practice	A checklist of things to actually do — open a portal, run a command, ask your buddy. Do them for real, then tick each one. Some tasks embed a video or walkthrough here.
Assess	A short quiz; 70% passes and you can retake it as often as you like. Some questions ask for a written reflection instead — those are for your own thinking and are not marked.

Apply	A realistic scenario that puts the task to work. Do it, then mark it complete. This is the part that makes it stick.
-------	--

4. Finishing a phase, and your schedule

When every task in a phase is done, the phase shows complete, the next unlocks, and your manager is emailed automatically. Nothing to submit. Each phase is normally allotted about a week; see your own dates under My Timeline.

You will receive	When
A midweek check-in reminder	Partway through each phase
An overdue notice	If a phase passes its due date unfinished
(Your manager) a completion notice	Each time you finish a phase

5. If something goes wrong

Situation	What to do
You cannot sign in	Use the email you registered with. If the confirmation email never arrived, check spam, then ask your manager to re-send it.
Your progress looks empty	Check you are signed in — your name shows at the bottom of the sidebar. Progress follows the account, not the browser.
A phase is locked and you need it	Finish the phase before it, or ask your manager if you genuinely need to work out of order.
You are behind schedule	Tell your manager early — they can move your dates and the reminders adjust automatically.

The one habit that matters

Tick things as you actually do them, not in a batch at the end of the week. The reminders, your manager's view, and your own sense of pace all depend on it being current.

Quick reference — where things are

Where	What it is for
Trailhead (home)	The map of all nine phases and your overall progress.
A phase page	The task cards for that phase.
A task page	Learn, Practice, Assess and Apply for one topic.
My Timeline	Your phase dates: started, midweek check-in, due.
Gear Room	Links, tools and reference material.
Sidebar footer	Who you are signed in as, and the sign-out link.